By -

Society of Biblical Literature, 2003. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 234 x 154 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.The Bible and the Qur an share a common discourse based on stories and legends associated with certain paradigmatic characters like Noah, Abraham, and Moses. Yet most biblical scholars are unfamiliar with the rich contents of Islamicate scriptural lore. The nine essays in the present volume, all from scholars who center their research on the intersections of Jewish, Christian, and Islamic literary traditions, explore various aspects of the textual and behavioral connections discernible among these three major religious communities. The book will appeal to students and scholars of Bible and biblical lore, particularly in diverse exegetical contexts; Biblicists interested in the reception history of Bible within the Islamicate cultural sphere; specialists in ancient and medieval Jewish literary history and folklore; scholars of eastern Christian history and literature; Islamicists with an interest in the Jewish and/or Christian textual and exegetical elements visible in early and medieval Islam. The Qur an and the Bible: Some Modern Studies of Their Relationship. Reuven Firestone A Prolegomenon to the Relation of the Qur an and the Bible. Vernon K. Robbins and Gordon...
