Vantage Press, Inc., New York, 2005. Hard Back. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: New. Stewart, Tanya (illustrator). First Printing of First Edition Stated. 5 Pages. Glossy maroon boards with gold spine lettering. Illustrated with black and white drawings by Tanya Stewart on almost every page. Ever wonder what life is like living in a sheep camp? Well, then, just come along and let Jeffrey, the ten-year-old narrator of this story, fill you in on all the fantastic and wonderful feelings and events. Jeffrey and his brother, Bryan, who is eight years old, love to visit their grandparents' sheepcamp during the summer. There, they get to ride horses, herd the sheep, and eat lots of the delicious food their grandmother cooks. Sometimes other relatives visit, too, and then Jeffrey and Bryan get to hear all of their wondrous stories. Like when Uncle Bill talks about his days as a Navajo Code Talker during the war; or when Bryan's mom, Barbara, talks to the animals and has them nibbling on her hands and fingers! Life is so magic living in a sheep camp! But as with all good things, eventually Jeffrey and Bryan have to return to their lives in the city. Want to know what happens to them when they do? It's also pretty magical! So come on! Jump into Grandpa's old Chevy truck for a lovely but bumpy! ride. In Carol Clark's book everyone has chores to do, but everyone has fun, too! Fully complemented by warm illustrations, this entertaining and informative book will delight youngsters and oldsters alike. The author grew up in Naneelzhiin, New Mexico, where she lived in a traditional hogan (a Navajo Indian dwelling made of logs and mud), rich with its own culture and language. One of eight children, Ms. Clark grew to love...
