The resulting mass was washed repeatedly with alcohol without becoming white, but it crystallized from boiling ligroine in minute white needles, turning brown in contact with the air. Note on Thiocarbanilide. It was found that the compound $2C_6H_7N$. $HgCl_2$ underwent rapid decomposition when exposed in contact with carbon disulphide to the action of sunlight. Subsequently, that this decomposition took place merely by heating, and could be best effected in the following manner: The purified chloride of diphenylmercurammonium was dissolved in alcohol, and after being mixed with carbon disulphide, was boiled for several days under a return cooler. When the reaction was finished, which was made evident by the clearing of the liquid, the precipitated HgS was filtered off, and the filtrate set aside to crystallize. After a second crystallization, a pure product was obtained with a melting point...
